WHOSE CENTURY?

I was handed a copy of John Dos Passos' last novel, "Century's Ebb: The Thirteenth Chronicle," in Cameron Public Library Tuesday.

He is the last of the novelists of the 1920s and dead since 1970. Like Hemingway and Thomas Wolf and Steinbeck, he was born late in the 19th or at the turn of the 20th century.

The values, the literature, the memory of this country came from Dos Passos' generation of writers, up to about 1965, which may approximate the age of rejection for romantics and innocence in this country. It may also approximate the "escalation" of the Vietnam War, campus rebellion, imported rock music, "guns and butter" abundance, political assassination, space exploration.

Dos Passos long was a chronicler of a nation he loved, assaying its political and social structures with the help of Walt Whitman, the Civil War poet recently portrayed in a television special.

After 16 novels, three plays, 13 of these "Chronicles" and a compendium of his letters and diary, Dos Passos ends "Ebb" as wide-eyed and enthusiastic as the life which gave prolific evidence of his literary acumen.

Listen:

"Two minutes, thirty-six seconds and counting. . .all systems go." Ears throbbed in anticipation, hearts beat a tattoo. Suppose something went wrong. "Thirty seconds and counting." Now the fire. Red and yellow flames. The great white pencil lifted itself slowly out of its billow of brown smoke. An enormous rumbling roar filled the sky. Faster, higher. The flaming rocket curves into the clouds. Frantic throats answer the jet engines' roar only to be hushed when the quiet workaday voices of the spacecraft's crew take over the radio. Worldwide, uncounted millions of television viewers joined in a prayer for the men in that golden bullet. In every one of them the need to know, the smouldering spirit of adventure, buried deep down under the routine of every day, flared for a moment like the rocket engine into soaring flame."

A remarkable ending for a writer in the last of his days, awed, hopeful, prophetic he was. His concern for this country's institutions, its individuals and people hardly could be said dispairing.

Dos Passos is one of the giants of the novelist's part of this century, because the 19th century belonged to the novelist and the 20th to the journalist.

Which is to say Dos Passos raises facts to fiction. The journalist tries to make sense of fiction, i.e., Watergate, Sharpstown, world wars, political wars, government, social movements and the nebulae of consequences and inconsequentialities.

Interpreting news may be an act of creativity. The accusation is often made toward novelists who draw upon their own observations and lives that most if not all fiction is biographical. And in the case of a Thomas Wolf, the charge goes, it is almost totally autobiographical.

Everything is memory even as it is energy.

So much information is attainable that imagination either is unnecessary or unable to cope with the reality of an Apollo 11 moonshot. Science fiction isn't doing much better than physicists and biochemists these days.

The scan of Dos Passos' as a novelist was immersed in reality. And I am not so sure it isn't easier and more effective to relate events through characterization and creative narrative. The journalist has neither the literary license nor the time, even in news analysis, to wait out events and prove himself or his words profound and prophetic.

The journalist is well equipped, however, to project his reality from the flow of events into the tomorrows and next weeks of the future. He may seem prophetic if he also scans events like a Dos Passos and stores all that stuff for flashing out the day-to-day into some kind of living history. It is dangerous business in the hands of amateurs and newsroom philosophers, seeing a new trend and "momentous portent" at too many turns.

Dos Passos liked this country. Not as many people like this country as they once did.

They, the "not as manys" are too busy doing what journalism concerns itself with. They are plotted on charts, they are serialized, they are "normed," they are done in by their numbers.

Dos Passos saw these things for 74 years, through 13 "Chronicles" and the first moonshot. His last published paragraph was romantic, hopeful, but more, it was a piece of reportage.

John Dos Passos' generation presided over the transition from fiction to fact. Hemingway encouraged the change by his direct style of writing, which influenced journalist and novelist. He was both.

A lot more facts are processed, but I doubt if we know more.

Four Persons Injured In Traffic Mishaps

Three accidents over the weekend resulted in injuries to four people, all taken to Scott and White Memorial Hospital at Temple.

A freak accident Friday night on the airpark runway sent Betty Robertson of 800 E. 16, and her small daughter to the hospital.

They were injured when they fell out of a pickup that went out of control on the runway while it was being backed up by Mrs. Robertson.

Around noon Saturday, two Cameron boys, Jerry Glass and Mark Jackson, both received broken legs when the motorcycle they were riding on was in collision with a car at 7th and Milam.

The car was driven by Barbara Schulte of Houston. She was traveling west on Seventh and the motorcycle was traveling north on Milam. Both boys were taken to Scott and White.

A two-vehicle accident west of the Cameron city limits Monday resulted in extensive vehicle damage but no injuries, according to Highway Patrol Trooper Scott Douglas, who investigated the mishap.

A pickup driven by Ed Shelton of Baird received extensive damage in a collision with a car driven by Joe Biskup of Cameron. Biskup was crossing Highway 36 from FM 2269 on to Columbus Ave. when the collision occurred.

Move Clock Up For Daylight Time

It's confusion time again--Sunday morning at 2 a.m. clocks will be moved forward as daylight savings time begins April 25.

Anyway, the extra hour of daylight will be in effect until the last Sunday in October.

625-Acre Annexation...

Council Views Growth Plan

City council Tuesday evening approved contracting with the Cason engineering firm to establish field notes on some 625 acres recommended for annexation by the city limits committee of the Cameron Planning Commission.

The proposition was presented by A. W. McCullin, director of the Community Development Agency as part of his report to council members.

McCullin said the annexation has been under study for the past two years. He said some builders want to develop housing for the city and with Shell Oil Co. lignite mining in the offing, the city is faced with an opportunity for growth.

THE AREA TO BE annexed runs mostly along present city limits and would include the air park and part of the area west of the present limits.

McCullin said the plan must be presented to the state attorney general for approval before annexation, so it will be a matter of some time before action can be taken.

In other reports, McCullin said decision has been made to use the area downtown that was cleared by urban renewal to build a livestock exposition barn for the youth of the county. He said there is not enough space for both the barn and a civic auditorium.

He said a group had looked at a similar structure in Stephenville, which was built with volunteer labor. He said the County Livestock Association now has a sum of $17,000 which was raised for the building. He said CDA has some funds that can be put in the area but not in the building.

STREET DRAINAGE came in for discussion, with Ernest Taylor of 801 W. 2nd showing photos of the flooding in his area. This is near the Southern Pacific railroad, and that company has been contacted to do something about the poor drainage, but City Atty. Ed Magre says he can get no action from the company and the city will probably have to do the work.

McCullin said he had gotten numerous calls Sunday morning about street flooding after torrential rains Sunday night and morning.

COUNCIL, AS A committee, will host a Thursday meeting to discuss the ambulance service. Invited are mayors from Buckholts and Thorndale, and from Rockdale to tell what that city had done for ambulance service after the funeral home stopped it there. Administrators from the two Cameron hospitals will also attend.

Councilman Gene Lumpkin was appointed to investigate cost of remodeling work that can be done on the fire hall so it can be used as a council meeting room and for city court.

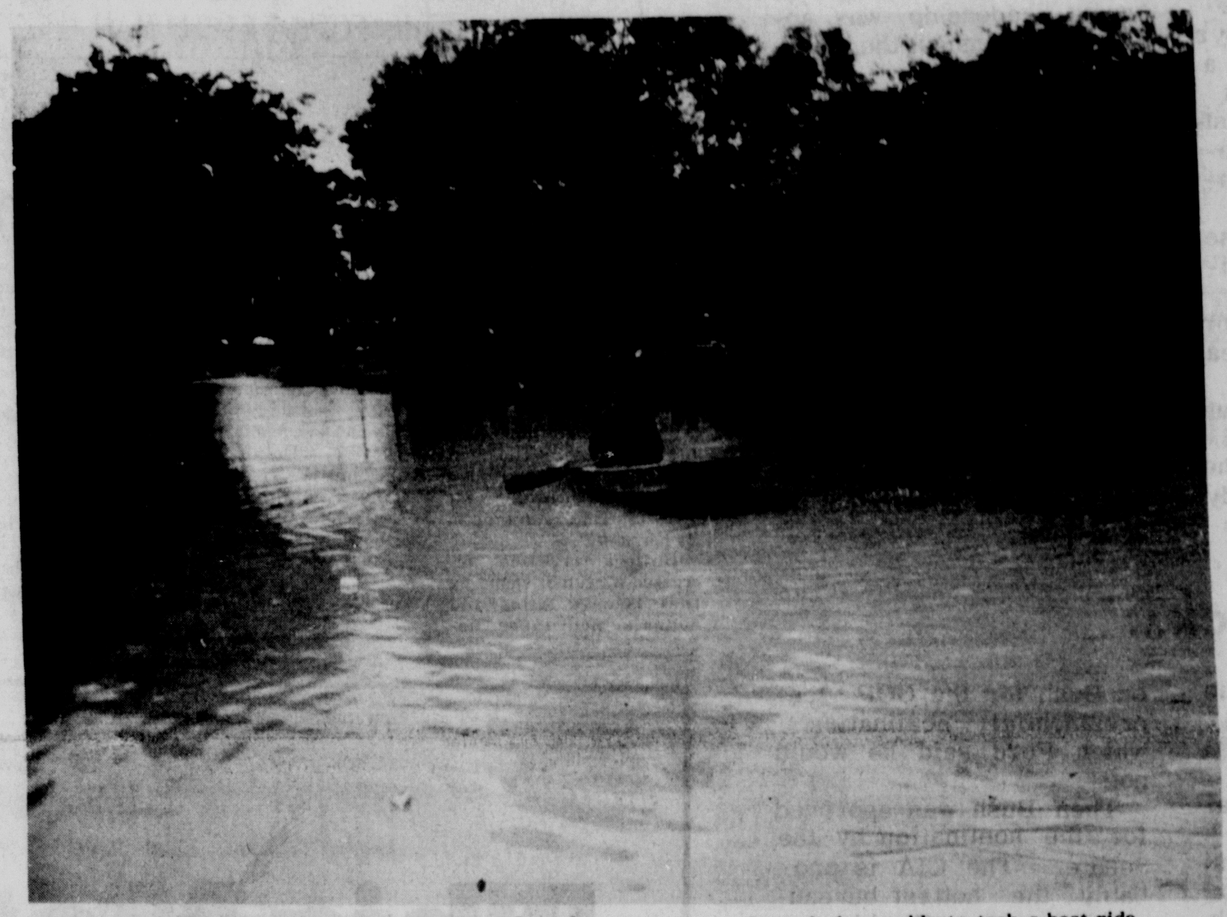
COUNCIL APPROVED naming a new park being constructed near the junior high school O. J. Thomas Park & Playground. McCullin said dirt work is continuing at the site and the building will be moved on to the area shortly.

McCullin also reported on progress of the sewer system for Alabama Town. He said that most of the lines have been put down and the system will be ready for testing in about two weeks.



THE RAIN FELL mainly on Cameron Saturday night, Sunday morning, and again Tuesday night. The 4-inch downpour Sunday resulted in this picture of flooded North Nolan at the intersection of 10th. One of the residents took a boat ride down the street, showing that massive rains and Cameron's drainage system don't go together.

Shell Outlines Pre-Mining Study

A crowd of about 140 Tuesday morning heard Shell Oil Mining Manager Neil J. Isto and Radian Corporation Vice-President F. Scott LaGrone present the oil company's plans for an environmental study to be conducted in Milam County by Radian as a preliminary to lignite mining.

The program was also presented to Milam County commissioners court and the Cameron city council on Monday afternoon.

Isto told the gathering that the first step of the venture is to determine whether the company can mine lignite with a study of the physical environment.

He said the first area being studied is some 10,000 to 11,000 acres south of Highway 79 between Rockdale and Milano. The study will expand later to cover the north side of 79, he said.

He said the environmental study will be used in the mine design, in an environmental impact state, if required and for the number of permits required for the actual mining.

ISTO NOTED THAT the Texas Legislature in its last session had passed the Texas Mining and Reclamation Act, which requires that strip miners restore the land to a better condition than it was before being mined.

He introduced LaGrone, who will be program manager of the environmental assessment program to be carried out by the Radian Corp., an Austin based firm.

LaGrone, with slides, showed what areas the study will cover, including soils, hydrology, microclimatology, vegetation, overburden, wildlife, air quality plus the social and economic impact that may result if a mining project is developed by Shell.

CONCERNING THE LATTER two subjects, Shell suggests that the two communities involved establish advisory panels that might include city and county planners, school and hospital officials, etc. Shell and its consultant, Radian, propose then to periodically review the studies with the advisory panels to hear community views on the subject.

Isto told commissioners Monday that the number of people who will work the mine will depend upon the tonnage of the mine. He said if some 300 or 400 workers move in, this could mean an influx of 1,200 people moving into communities in the county, and this would have an effect on housing, schools, etc.

He said most of Shell's land is leased although the company has purchased some of the land. He said in answer to a question that displaced persons would have to be dealt with on an individual basis, but they would be "compensated fairly."

QUESTIONS AFTER Tuesday's presentation included one asking if the reports would be available to the public. Isto said they would be for anyone, individual or group, who wanted to study them.

But lease maps are not available, he said, since the situation in the county is "still competitive."

Someone asked if Shell would have a central office, but Isto said no plans are ready yet on this, as it will be several years before actual mining would start. He said a small office has been set up in Rockdale for field workers and for the two employees who are living in Rockdale. He said a field construction office would be needed, but so far there are no definite plans on where it will be.

ISTO SAID LIGNITE is not a high quality fuel and it would not be economical to have to move it a great distance. However, he said, there will be a tremendous need for other types of energy as natural gas sources dry up

SHELL MEETING--Here Scott LaGrone, left, vice-president of Radian Corp. of Austin, and Neil Isto, mining manager for Shell Oil present a program at Methodist Fellowship Hall on Shell's environmental study to be conducted by Radian as a prelude to lignite mining in Milam County.

Charges Filed For Possession, Officer's Assault

Charges of possession of marijuana and assault on a peace officer were filed in Justice of the Peace Jess Brock's court over the weekend for two separate men, one from Houston and the other from Midland.

The charges of possession of marijuana was filed on Jewel Bickham, 27, of Houston Monday following his arrest by Police Officer Ed Sexton on West Eighth St. around 10:30 Saturday night.

The charge of assault was filed on George Elbert Jr. of Midland Sunday following a Saturday night incident in which he reportedly assaulted Highway Patrol Trooper Jerry Benson.

Bond was set at $2,000 by Brock.

Good Sense To Listen...

If Shell Company technologists and advance executives aren't impressed by a public turnout of 140 for a morning coffee, we don't know what might suggest county-seat Cameron's interest in Shell's lignite mining plans.

And it well convinced those Cameronite s and area residents that this lignite development has potential for growth in the Milam area only a few years away.

What's more, the turnout was a cross-section of private and public sector of the area, proof that everybody is interested in these prospects. What's more, the young leadership was apparent throughout the meeting.

The research and evaluation stage of the project will provide valuable demographic information for the county as well as the company. It's like a special census evaluation of population characteristics, land, and natural resources.

We congratulate Shell for telling it like it will be and Cameron residents for having the good sense to find out the potential of this development well in advance of its happening.

The Church Tack...

Beside the TV political rhetoric to get attention, there is a tendency to term caution weakness in an incumbent still trying to clinch his own party nomination.

Senator Frank Church challenges Ford for his handling of the Nixon pardon, the CIA controversy, the FBI revelations and conspiracy trials of some of the Nixon lieutenants.

If memory serves, it was Frank Church who chaired the Senate committee which reviewed the nomination of George Bush, former U. S. representative in Mainland China, before Bush took over the Central Intelligence Agency. It was this committee which exacted a pledge from the White House not to call on Bush for the GOP vice-presidential nomination, which Ford said he would not.

Then Bush was approved for the nomination by the Senate. The CIA is probably the hottest bureaucratic potato in Washington.

No serious observer gives Church serious consideration for the Democratic nomination. Jimmy Carter, Hubert Humphrey and Scoop Jackson have pre-empted those prospects.

And perhaps the President could have heavy-handed some of these problems. But isn't that what Richard Nixon and his aides did and isn't that what drew the ire of opposition politicians, beyond the legal implications?

"Low Down"

FROM THE

Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

LABOR VIOLENCE SENATE BILL TARGET

Senator Dewey F. Bartlett (Okla.) ". . .According to some predictions, the year ahead may be one of special difficulty in the negotiations of contracts with organized labor. While there may be nothing Congress can do to facilitate these negotiations, there is something we can do to help in the case against the violence which often results from labor disputes. . .There are terrible illustrations of violence, and I am not talking about the cases of simple vandalism such as a brick thrown through a window. . .

"Since January, one person has been nearly beaten to death; and while this was occurring, the plant nurse was outside so that she was unable to assist injured individuals. . . Five non-union people were beaten with shovels. The result was one man requiring brain surgery and under intensive care. . .

"Who pays for an individuals car that is riddled with bullets while parked in front of the home during off-work hours? And what of the family when their home is attacked with bombs or bullets shot through the window?. . .

"The State of Michigan has been a repeated site of excessive destruction and violence:

"First, $50,000 damage to a professional building at Lansing.

"Second, destruction of equipment, vehicles, and walls at a refinery near Kalkaska.

"Fifth, $30,000 damage to another school project at Rochester.

"S 2795 which I introduced on Dec. 16, 1975, is not directed at the isolated incident of minor vandalism but rather to acts of violence that result in substantial damage. The damage must exceed $2,000 before this new provision would come into effect. A safeguard in my bill is that in order for the destructive action to be a Federa crime it mut have been a willful act.

"(My bill) would amend the provisions of the Hobbs Act to specifically provide for Federal jurisdiction in situations where excessive violence has occurred. . ."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Most acts of labor violence are cowardly. Usually the victims are outnumbered. Truckers are shot at from ambush and threatened by anonymous telephone calls. The victims need all the help they can get; either local, state, or federal.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor;

Everybody knows it takes more and more money to keep your head above water these days, some government statistics claiming it takes $15-000 a year for a family of four.

Therefore there's a problem that's been worrying me. Somewhere in some attic or laboratory some guy right now may be thinking up a new game. Let me explain.

As you know, our forefathers 200 years ago didn't have to put up any basketball hoops or lay out any football fields and build stadiums, as those games weren't invented then. I don't have the figures, but it takes millions and millions of dollars a year to finance football, considering all the fields, stadiums, uniforms, coaches, bands, pep squads, etc., not counting all the tickets the public has to buy from grammar school through high school and college, plus the pros.

All right, say some odd character invents a brand new game, one that sweeps the country like football and basketball, but one that requires all new and different facilities, costing as much as football stadiums and basketball gymnasiums.

With nearly every town and school in the country scrambling for money to barely stay even, think what would happen to their budgets if they had to pay also for this new game.

It ought to be nipped in the bud right now. Congress ought to pass a law outlawing any new game to be invented for at least the next 50 years.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

There are some people who say that if a fly lands on your nose, somebody has something to tell you!

Bullock Sees Cash Surplus For State

Comptroller Bob Bullock now figures the 1977 legislature will inherit a $737 million cash surplus when it convenes next January.

Legislators, according to Bullock's latest projection, will have $2.6 billion more to spend during the next biennium than the $8.4 billion available for 1976-77. That is a jump of 31 per cent.

Bullock credited increased consumer spending that boomed sales and motor vehicle taxes, improved tax enforcement and continued increases in oil and gas prices.

The comptroller advised setting some of the surplus aside for a rainy day, tight budgets and careful planning to avoid new taxes for "years to come."

Gov. Dolph Briscoe promptly recommended that $1 billion should be socked away in a rainy day fund or capital reserve account.

Briscoe said the reserve fund would "insure a fiscally-sound state government for the foreseeable future within the existing tax structure."

House Speaker Bill Clayton went the governor one better, and suggested the second $1 billion be rebated to Texas taxpayers through tax reductions. Clayton said $600 million added revenue would take care of necessary inflationary increases.

Wiretaps Urged

Gov. Briscoe will ask legislators to authorize court-ordered and supervised wiretapping to help police organized crime.

Briscoe said the war on crime will be the No. 1 priority item in his legislative program in 1977.

The governor said there is no room for argument as to whether organized crime has penetrated into Texas. The question, he said, centers on the extent of the invasion and how it can be controlled and repelled.

His legislative proposals will include bills to make organized criminal activities a felony, allow electronic surveillance in investigations of organized crime and to permit a defendant to be tried for all organized criminal activities in a single trial.

Shots Available

The vaccine will be for swine influenza, together with the A-Victorian strain.

Regular swine influenze vaccine will be available about September 1.

Chamberlain Reports To Voters Of Constable Pct. 1

On December 19, 1975, I filed for Constable of Precinct 1, Milam County. Since that time, I have tried to contact each household within this precinct. Of course, I have missed some of you, therefore I am using this means to contact you and request your vote on May 1, 1976.

I am a native of Precinct 1, having been born and reared where I am now living. I graduated from C. H. Yoe High School in 1955 and from Texas A&M University in 1961.

I have owned and operated Chamberlain Meat Co. for 12 years, am a nine-year veteran of the Cameron Volunteer Fire Department, and am a member of the Central Texas Peace Officers Association.

My first interest in law enforcement came in 1958 when I met and assisted Highway Patrolmen and now Texas Ranger Charlie Hodges and Highway Patrolman Floyd Tippit. Since that time I have worked as a Reserve Officer, certified by the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education, have had over 230 hours training in Law and am currently enrolled in College Law Enforcement Classes.

Being a native of Milam County and having lived here most of my life, I am well acquainted with the area, with most of you--the voters, and with the problems prevalent in our area.

The office of Constable is an office of service to both the city and rural area. A vote for H. T. "Tommy" Chamberlain May 1 will be a vote for experience, training, education, and twenty-four hour service in the office of Constable Precinct 1.

RANGE JUDGING TEAM

Callie Bermudagrass Is Highlighted At Confab

Callie bermudagrass, another of an impressive line of improved pasture bermudas dating back to the early 19-50s, has come a long way in a relatively short time.

Since it was first selected at Mississippi State University in 1966, Callie (Cynodon dactylon) has been planted by 8,000 persons in 35 states and territories, 11 foreign countries, and 27 colleges and universities.

Callie's rise to prominence was outlined last Friday during the annual Texas Animal Agriculture Conference April 8-9 at Texas A&M University. The conference was sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Vance H. Watson of the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station said Callie is a robust grass which has larger stolons, wider leaves, and taller growth than the famed Coastal and other bermuda varieties and hybrids commonly used for forage.

Growth rates of 2. to 6 inches per day have been reported in some southeastern states.

Range of distribution has been from Alaska on the north to Africa on the south, but Watson says most of the grass plantings are on a line from North Carolina to Texas.

So far, forage production from Callie has been higher than that of common, Coastal or Alicia in Mississippi trials. The grass stands well under moderatly high to high nitrogen levels

Sorghum Grass Control

By Billy M. McCutcheon
Milam County Exten. Agent

A tour of grain sorghum weed and grass control plots on the John A. Smith farm last week indicated that there was some hope for grass control in grain sorghum.

Miloguard plus Ramrod at 1.0 plus 4.0 lbs. per acre broadcast respectively looked good on heavy coloradograss infestations. Miloguard was included for broadleaf control. Ramrod is the principal grass control agent.

Igran at 1.0 lbs. per acre broadcast also looked good on Coloradograss. The Igran was a little hotter on the grain sorghum than was the Ramrod however.

Both Miloguard plus Ramrod, and Igran performed rather well last season in the same location.

Bladex plus Miloguard, Miloguard alone, and Aatrex plus Miloguard mixtures were not effective in the plot work on the Smith farm.

Coloradograss is one of the most difficult grasses to control. Materials that show control on Coloradograss are usually very effective on most other annual grasses with the exception of seedling Johnsongrass.

Dr. Dave Weaver, Extension weed control specialist who assisted in establishing the plots, and assisted with the tour said, "Don't expect any material to control seedling Johnsongrass in grain sorghum and you won't be disappointed."

He did say that both Ramrod and Igran did give seedling Johnsongrass control in some instances.

The April meeting of the Civic Garden Club was held on Thursday, April 15, at the club house of the Business and Professional Women. Hostesses were Mrs. Milton J. Falkner, Mrs. Jack Bigham, Mrs. Theo Aschenbeck, and Mrs. Robert Glenn. Refreshments were served during the social hour which preceded the meeting proper.

The program for the day was entitled, Parents and SOGS (Silly Old Grandparents), Beware! Presented by Mrs. Evelyn Hearne, the program dealt with plants with which we are in daily contact that may be poisonous if chewed. The speaker stressed that as a safety measure parents and SOGS should teach their children not to chew any kind of vegetation in the rough.

Some of the plants common to our area whose leaves, seeds, or roots may be poisonous that were mentioned at the meeting were daffodil, hyacinth, oleander, poinsettia, elephant's ear, castor bean, mistletoe, larkspur, lantana, wisteria, laurels, azaleas, and yew. A list of poisonous plants, giving the toxic parts and the symptoms, may be obtained from the Texas Department of Health in Austin.

Mrs. Theo Aschenbeck, club president, presided for a short business meeting. Plans were made for the Saturday, May 1, meeting at which time the club will conduct a pilgrimage to Austin where they will go to the garden center, tour the Japanese Garden in the morning, have a picnic lunch, and in the afternoon, attend the Austin Area Garden Center flower show.

Cauley Says

Attitude---Is Important

One thing that is for certain in Yoe's coaching staff is that word "ATTITUDE." Head Coach Ed Cauley demands it. One other thing that demands it is winning Attitude is interchangable with winning.

There can't be enough emphasis on attidue and if you don't believe it ask Ed Cauley. "The thing I'm most impressed with this off-season is our attitude. It looks like it's going to be an enjoyable group to work with," Cauley added.

"To have a successful program you must maintain a good attitude. We have weeded out some people all ready this year that we felt wouldn't be able tohelp us strictly because of their attitidues," Cauley stated.

"The kids have really improved in their body strength and in their quickness since the start of our off-season," added Cauley. "We have 48 people in our off-season and after track, our numbers will increase."

There are a lot of things that you can not do during off-season due to the Interscholastic League rules. We can't have over three men at one time in a drill, no pads, no dummies, or football related materials. We can have a football and we can wear molded cleated shoes."

"With everything aside, I think our attitude this off-season program is most impressive," Cauley concluded.

There is no need in listing the results of what difference attitude makes.

SPORT SPOTLIGHT

By FORREST GUESS

YOE RUNNERS. . .

The Yoe girls mile relay team will be running in the regional girls track meet April 24. The relay team is pictured on this page and is the first girls team to ever represent Yoe High in the regional contest.

In the first full year of girls sports much has to be said about their success. Coach Linda Puckett has been in charge of the entire girls program.

If the girls improve from the district to regional as they did before their district meet the team could also be the first girls team to run in the state meet.

While the girls prepare for the regional meet the boys will be vying in the district 23AA meet hosted by Rosebud-Lott.

All the members that placed 1st or 2nd in the meet will run in the regional meet on May 1.

MILANO FEMS. . .

Coach Roger Hashems Milano girls track team coach, will take five members of his team to the regional class B meet.

Members that will represent Milano in the meet will be Sara Myers in the high jump. Sandra Smith qualified for the 100 yard dash and Bonita Williams in the 60 yard dash, 80 yard hurdles, 100 yard dash, and long jump.

Two girls will represent the Eaglettes in the field events at the regional meet. Connie Gunnels will toss the shot put and Margaret Garrison will heave the discus.

The regional meet will be held April 24 in Brenham.

BEES BUSY. . .

San Francisco Giants 2, Cincinati 0 and the Bees 10,000. A swarm of 10,000 plus or minus honey bees took over Riverfront Stadium and forced a 35-minute delay of a nationally televised baseball game.

The game got underway after two fans and Tony Kubeck located the queen bee and lured the swarm into a cardboard box. Kubeck has recently gone into the bee business and one of the fans was an exterminating expert.

The Giants benefited from the bees who had infested their dugout. Before the day was over at least a dozen fans were stung after a crew member of the stadium sprayed the bees with a fire extinguisher enraging them.

At least there was some exictement for the Cincy fans--and Kubeck commited that it was a BEE--autiful day.

SKATEBOARD. . .

What was termed only as a craze in the mid-sixties now has had a re-birth. Skateboards, along with welcoming back the 4 wheel boards you must welcome back bunged up toes, twisted ankles and the famous scraped knees and hands.

For some the pains were even more serious. In the 60s most hills were covered with the dare devils trying everying from 360s (a complete turn about) to hand stands.

The boards sell from $10 to $125 for competition models. In many of the larger cities skateboards clubs and leagus have started forming for summer competition.

The skateboard seem to have the same history of the hullahoops that were also popular in the early 60s. . . it only seem to be a fad with the youngsters but at a $125 a board it seems to be a fairly lucretive busines. . .

. . .And with Medical bills as high as they are it could turn out to be the most expensive sport around.

Calvert Sets Sports Banquet

The world's heaviest "coin" is the Fe or stone discs from the Yap Islands in the Pacific, which can be as large as 12 feet in diameter

Steve Davis, starting quarterback three years for the national champion Oklahoma Sooners, will be guest speker at the annual All Sports Banquet for Calvert High School athletes Tuesday night, April 27.

Davis, voted Most Valuable Player in this year's Orange Bowl, is a Baptist preacher who spends much of his time speaking to youth groups across the nation. He flies his own plane to his speaking engagements. Last December he appeared on Billy Grahams national TV crusade program.

The banquet, sponsored each year by the PTA will be held in the high school gym. Dr. Joe Weldon Bailey is general chairman of the banquet and will serve as master of ceremonies. Athletes, both girls and boys, will be honored at the gala affair. The boy's track team won the District 24A championship last week.

Tickets are $2.50 per person and are on sale at the high school and Chamber of Commerce office. Around 400 are expected for this year's banquet.

Head Coach David Brown will present awards to the athletes. Mrs. Amy Geeslin, girl's coach, will present awards to the girl athletes. Out of town guests are expected from Waco, Bryan, Hearne, Franklin, Dallas, Houston, and Temple

Hunters Like All-Day Dove Hunting

South Zone dove hunters had a brief taste of all-day dove shooting during the winter season and most found it to their liking.

Mourning dove program leader Jim Dunks at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department mailed 131 questionaires to South Zone hunters and asked them what they thought of the sunrise-to-sunset hunting hours. The Jan. 3-18 season was the first time in many years that Texas hunters were given the option to hunt doves all day in the South Zone.

"An unusually high 89 percent of those we questioned responded to our survey," said Dunks. "Of that figure, 71 percent favored all-day hunting, 3 percent disliked it, and 16 percent were undecided."

Comments on the returned questionnaires showed most of the hunters appreciated the opportunity to hunt doves during both the morning and afternoons. However, most amitted that hunting was best during evening hours.

Quail hunters were especially appreciative of the chance to bag an occasional dove in the morning.

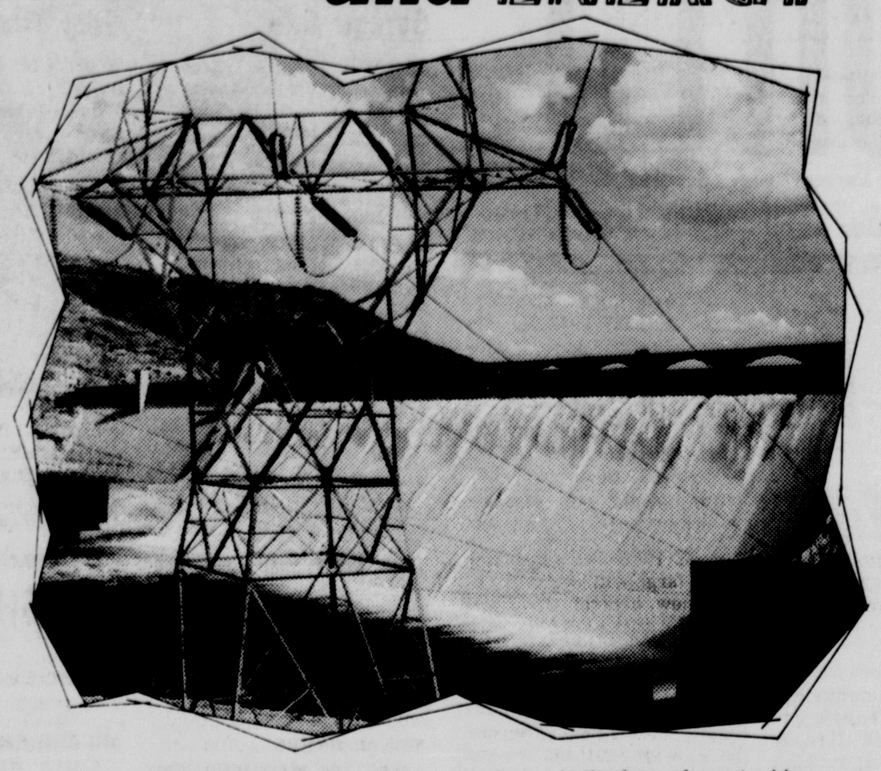
AMBITION and ENERGY



Ambition is strong in some people. They have the unique ability to define their goals in life and they are able to channel their skills and energy in order to realize these ambitions.

Of course, each of us has our own individual goals — all different in proportion and nature. And, each requires a different amount of energy to be realized. If we fail, we should exert more energy! For this ability to keep trying — in the face of great odds . . . can lead eventually to success.

To one degree or another then, all of us are constantly using up our individual energy supplies. To tackle the fresh challenges and problems of each tomorrow, we need a dependable source of unfailing power. Such continuous power is always available to you within the supporting bonds of the Church.

New State Law Requires Babysitters To Register

Babysitters who offer regular child care in their homes are required by a new state law to meet minimum standards and register with the State Department of Public Welfare (DPW).

The registration portion of the Child Care Licensing Act, which went into effect Jan . 1, is actually more lenient than the previous law which required babysitters to be licensed and to submit to quarterly inspections. Registration differs from licensing in that it allows child care providers to certify themselves.

Under the new provisions, persons who care for up to six children, not including their own, are responsible for contacting a DPW licensing representative and requesting registration forms and copies of the minimum standards. These standards require health and fire inspections, immunizations for the children, and a health card for the operator. Civil as well as criminal penalties can be assessed for failure to register.

A unique feature of the registration process is its reliance on parents, rather than representatives of the state, to insure that minimum standards are being met. Parents who regularly leave children with babysitters must be acquainted with the standards, available without cost through the sitter, and are responsible for checking to make sure the standards are being maintained.

"Registration is as much educational as it is regulatory," said Gloria Manos, head of day care licensing in central Texas. "We simply want to bring parents and child care providers up-to-date on what constitutes a healty environment for children to grow and learn in."

According to Mrs. Manos, the last ten years have seen a sharp rise in the number of working mothers and a corresponding increase in the demand for day care. A lot of people have gotten into the day care business without the benefit of the latest knowledge in child development.

"It's an area that is constantly growing and improving," she said. "We want to make sure these persons are aware of the needs of children and then help them meet those needs."

In addition to providing free, helpful publications on child care, DPW licensing representatives serve as free counsultants to babysitters and other child care professionals, offering information and assistance on such topics as nutrition, educational programs, first aid, and purchasing toys and playground equipment.

only $16 MILLION.

That was quite a deal. Even in 1848.

Only problem was: how would you raise $16 million?

Well, thanks to people taking stock in America, that problem was no problem. The government simply offered 20-year, six-percent Treasury Notes to the public.

The response was overwhelming.

Well, today's U.S. Savings Bonds are even more attractive. A full 6% at only 5 years' maturity.

So join in America's Bicentennial Celebration by buying U.S. Savings Bonds where you work or bank.

It's a better deal than ever.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Credit By Exam Open At Temple

April 26 is the registration deadline for credit by examination tests at Temple Junior College, according to Anice Naler, director of counseling and testing.

The next examination date is May 15, but students must register by April 26, Ms. Naler said.

The college offers credit for a maximum of 24 semester hours in more than 50 courses which the student may earn through the credit by examination process.

Students who believe they are qualified by experience or previous training may take the special examination, which, depending on the course, may be subject area examiniations of the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) or Temple Junior College's institutional examination, she said.

Students may not attempt credit by examination for any course in which they have been enrolled previously. The tests in any subject area may be taken once and the student must score a grade of "A" or "B" on the test to receive course credit.

Requests for examinations are made through the office of counseling and Testing. tions cost $15 each.
